Report for the Quarter Ended 31 March 2017

28th April 2017

CORPORATE & EXPLORATION UPDATE

- During the quarter, Dart continued its regional exploration and sampling program in the highly prospective Dorchap dyke swarm to identify further drill targets
- Confirmation of Spodumene bearing Lithium fertile pegmatite dykes within EL005315 (see ASX release 3rd April)
- Preliminary and limited sampling - assays up to 1.13% Li<sub>2</sub>O
- Preliminary LCT geochemistry currently only tested at 13 dykes out of circa 1800 dykes
- Application lodged for additional Lithium prospective ground (EL006486) that will give Dart a commanding and exclusive tenement position along the entire Dorchap Dyke Swarm over 60km of strike (see tenement status update below)
- Negotiations successfully concluded in the 100% acquisition by Dart of all outstanding joint-venture tenements previously held (see ASX release 6th February)
- Progress has been made with Innovation Australia on a review of Darts R&D claims. The company and its advisers remain confident of a positive outcome in this matter. The timing of an outcome is still too difficult to predict but it is hoped for soon.
- The company raised $300,000 during the quarter (see ASX release 1st March). The raising was well supported by a number of new shareholders. The cash raised is being applied to further the regional exploration program as mentioned above.

TENEMENT APPLICATION

During the period Dart submitted a further exploration licence application (EL006486 - Mt Creek), encouraged by the lithium assay results within EL5315 (See DTM ASX Update 3 April 2017). Subject to approval the new application will capture the final remaining portion of the Dorchap Dyke Swarm between the Eskdale EL006300 and Glen Wills EL006277 application areas, continuously covering some 60 km of strike along the dyke swarm – Figure 1.

TENEMENT STATUS

Tenement applications EL006277 (Empress) and EL006300 (Eskdale) have proceeded through Native Title advertising as the final step toward grant in the statutory application processes. Application EL006486 was submitted 30 March and is subject to the approvals process.
