The VG1 portfolio returned -0.5% in April,² with the long book contributing +0.3%, while the short book returned -0.8%.

April was a month in which markets were highly volatile, whipsawing around tariff announcements. The month started with a dramatic correction post “Liberation Day”, with global equity markets reacting negatively to worse-than-feared tariff policy from the Trump Administration, compounded by hedge funds being forced to deleverage. This was followed by a dramatic reversal as a “90 day pause” on tariff implementation was confirmed. Amongst the macroeconomic and geopolitical volatility, US 1Q25 earnings were up 12% on the prior corresponding quarter according to Goldman Sachs, and significantly better than consensus forecasts.

The biggest positive contributor for VG1 in April was Toyota Industries (share price +32%), which reportedly received a buyout proposal from Toyota Motor, according to Bloomberg. The thematic of Japanese authorities working to improve corporate governance practices, which includes encouraging companies to simplify or unwind their cross-holdings of subsidiaries, has been a key reason for our positive view on many stocks in Japan.

Our gold-exposed holdings were also strong contributors after gold rallied +5% during the month. We retain a bullish view on gold equities.

Key detractors were positions more heavily impacted by the China-US tariffs (such as GE HealthCare Technologies), as well as our technology and semiconductor holdings (Amazon, Meta and SK Hynix).

Buy-back: In April, approximately 2.3m VG1 shares were bought at an average price of $1.47.

² Portfolio Return (Net) is shown after all applicable fees and expenses and is defined as the movement in pre-tax NTA, adjusting for payments owed to/from taxation authorities from earlier periods, plus dividends. All data has been adjusted for VGI's capital raising in 2019. Last 12 Months is the 12-month period ending on the last day of the month of the performance that is reported in this document ("Month End"). Dividend Yield refers to dividends that have been determined by VGI's Board where the ex-date occurred during the relevant Last 12 Months period and has been calculated using the Share Price at the Month End of this report.
